SMALL-LOT PLANNING STUDY FOR THE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

The San Joaquin Valley Small-lot Planning Study investigates small-lot housing development feasibility in the eight-county region, and is intended to encourage jurisdictions to implement small-lot single-family development to increase housing capacity, mobility, affordability, and choice. The Study outlines the challenges and opportunities for addressing existing constraints to small-lot single-family development through changes to local policy and zoning requirements.

Mintier Harnish, in association with The Natelson Dale Group, conducted this study for the San Joaquin REAP program and will present the findings.
